

University of California
San Francisco

UCSF Osher Mini Medical School for The Public
Educating Physicians for the 21st Century: How UCSF is Advancing Medical Education to Meet the Needs of Future Patients

(COURSE #: MLL18002)

Wednesdays, October 18 – December 6 (no class November 8 and November 22)

7:00 pm – 8:30 pm

UCSF's Parnassus Campus – Nursing Building Room N-225

Course Chair:

Catherine Lucey, MD

Professor of Medicine; Executive Vice Dean and Vice Dean for Education
The Faustino and Martha Molina Bernadett Presidential Chair in Medical Education

Course Description

Healthcare is changing, and so is the way that physicians for the future are educated. Long a leader in medical education, the UCSF School of Medicine is transforming how the physicians of the twenty first century learn, respond to an ever-changing environment, and contribute to the Bay Area community. Taught by expert medical educators from UCSF School of Medicine, this course will highlight how medical education is adapting to meet the needs of both individual patients and society at large. The course will discuss innovations in class room learning, work place learning, educational technology, simulation and standardized patients, new scientific domains, inquiry and scholarship, the importance of community engagement, and student wellness.

Lecture Schedule – 7:00pm – 8:30pm
Date	Title	Speaker	Location
October 18, 2017	How do I become a doctor and what is medical student life all about?	Lee Jones, MD	Nursing Building Room N-225
October 25, 2017	Beating Burnout: Wellness for students, residents and fellows, and practicing physicians and why it is important	Larissa Thomas, MD	Nursing Building Room N-225
November 1, 2017	The new UCSF Bridges curriculum: A new way forward for medical education	Catherine Lucey, MD and John Davis, PhD, MD	Nursing Building Room N-225
November 15, 2017	Practice Makes Perfect: Using technology, simulation, and standardized patients	Sandrijn van Schaik, MD, PhD	Nursing Building Room N-225
November 29, 2017	Becoming a specialist and a lifelong learner: Residency, fellowship and continuing education	Bobby Baron, MD, MS	Nursing Building Room N-225
December 6, 2017	Community Commitment and Service Learning: Meeting the needs of San Francisco and the Bay Area	Leigh Kimberg, MD and Aisha Queen-Johnson, MSW	Nursing Building Room N-225